76-101 Interpretation & Argument

Crossing Borders: Forced Migration and Transnationalism in the 21st Century
Today’s Agenda: Working with Sources

- Summary, Paraphrase, & Quotation
- Citing Your Sources Video
- Discourse Communities & Citation Styles
- Citation Workshop
- Assignments & Announcements
Summary, Paraphrase, & Quotation

You can engage with source texts in different ways

Image from https://www.cmu.edu/student-success/other-resources/resource-descriptions/paraphrasing-article.html, “What Does My Instructor Want?”
Repeat, Rephrase, Respond

Three techniques for paraphrasing

Image from https://www.cmu.edu/student-success/other-resources/resource-descriptions/paraphrasing-article.html, “What Does My Instructor Want?”
The Potato Metaphor

The three steps of the paraphrasing process build off one another

Image from https://www.cmu.edu/student-success/other-resources/resource-descriptions/paraphrasing-article.html, “What Does My Instructor Want?”
Paraphrasing & Plagiarism
Citing Your Sources
What makes CMU different from Pitt, or Duquesne, or Carlow, Chatham, CCAC, etc.?

As an institution, what are CMU’s:
- values
- limitations
- expectations
- languages
- privileges

What does your major (or intended major/area of study) value? How is that similar or different to other majors/areas of study at CMU?
Discourse Communities & Citation Styles

A discourse community is a group of people who share a set of basic values and beliefs, known as discourses. Each discourse community has its own set of written or unwritten rules and uses them to pursue a common goal. Some discourse communities are more rigid than others, requiring an official membership while others are more casual. Most people move between and within discourse communities every day.

Definition from https://tophat.com/glossary/d/discourse-community-2/
Discourse Communities & Citation Styles

Citation Styles & Academic Disciplines

- What do you think MLA values?
- What does APA seem to value?
- What about IEEE?
Citation Workshop

- 3 groups: MLA, APA & IEEE
  1. In your group, choose a children’s book. In person students have physical books to choose from and online groups can pick from the free PDFs online here.

- Use the source to practice repeating, rephrasing, responding, and citing. In other words:
  1. Pull out an example quotation (repeat), and write it out with a proper in-text citation according to your group’s style.
  2. Using that or a different quote, paraphrase the source (rephrase) with proper citation.
  3. Next, respond to the source analytically, also with proper citation.
  4. Finally, write out how this source would appear in your assigned style’s works cited page.
  5. Notetaking Doc